GLOBAL COMMUNICATIONS WITH NO INFRASTRUCTURE

Satellite Radio enables users to talk to anyone in their group, wherever they may be on the Earth's surface. With Iridium Satellite network, constant, low-latency communications are now a cost-effective option, and whether you're transmitting overseas or if the local telecoms infrastructure is rendered unusable, you can still achieve reliable communications.

BUILT TO SURVIVE HARSH CONDITIONS

Designed to survive in the harshest environments, the Satellite radio features IP67 dust and water protection, and provides loud, clear audio even in noisy environments.

The radio is easily operable even through gloves, as it features large buttons, and provides long battery life while you're out on the field.
